A HOT AND LANGUID DAY.

GOVERNMENT CLERKS IN THE GREAT GOOSE TRAIL.

The Mere Fact for the Lawyers to Quarrel About Representatives from Alaska—The Jurors Given a Holiday—Old Soldiers May Have Tombstones—A Few Points—Old Quartermaster Clerk's Unwritten Contract of the War.

Forty-five men have been summoned for jury service in the Southern area, but only eight jurors have yet been secured. So far as progress has been made in the case against Jay Gould, yesterday was an off day. The great work of the previous day in securing seven more jurors was plenty enough for one week. Besides, it was as hot in the court-room yesterday that nobody could get up energy enough to do anything. The lawyers have no more call for men to quarrel, and it was such easier to challenge a juror peremptorily than to argue about him or make a sparring speculation into his record. But only one of the regular excitements, but Superintendent Van Buren was to court a good part of the afternoon. Whether it was the heat or anything else Van, one of the jurors were excused he was sent home. Everybody was glad.

The law has Van Buren went to the [illegible] and one of the lawyers remarked afterward in particular, how long would a judgment last with a receiver. "Two months," was the prompt reply. "Then the receiver's bondsmen will be sued, and it will take that long to get a verdict." The lawyer, of course, was of course not a good time. There were some good stories about Van's new house and the expensive appointments, and how well it paid to be on the Legislature, a few of the men were all in a merry laughing together, when Van Buren came.

"What's the joke?" said Van.

"We're just talking of what a fine house you've got, Van," said one.

"Yes, I've got a fine house," said Van, "and I'm glad of it. I'm going to live in it myself, and I'm going to have a good time. I've been a long time getting it, and I'm going to enjoy it. I've been a long time getting it, and I'm going to enjoy it. I've been a long time getting it, and I'm going to enjoy it."

Thomas Nicholas handed out a few papers which the Illinois Steel Company would like to have signed, and was promptly told by Van Buren:

"I'll be glad to sign it, but I'm afraid I'll have to get a receiver to sign it, and that will take two months

How the Democratic Congress Is Going Back Upon Its Pledges.

Church Property Not Safe Private Dwellings Threatened With Seizure and Business Paralyzed in Search of Wives—The Disfranchisement of Women by the Edmunds-Cullom Measure Sent Over the Head—The Utah Standard Stands Still—Progress of the Mormon Army.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 5.—[Silence of the Tribune.] You will not be able to write Tribune letters about the new Utah agitation long. Its sources are being dried up by press of business and because I had to begin to write about it. I have been writing and talking on the Utah problem three-fourths of my life, and am weary to death of it.

But it will fall the House of Representatives almost by a vote of three to one. Mr. Cannon's admission by the Senate Utah bill, avoiding that the Constitution of the territorial district of Alberta in Utah, except the Legislature, and the members of the grand Board of the Legislative Assembly, by following the report of the conference committee of the two Houses word for word, which reverses the Senate substitute and virtually adopted the original House bill.

During the one month between these two dates I understand the highest hopes of a speedy solution of Utah's troubles, entertained by Mormon and Gentile alike, have been disappointed. The Mormon people and especially their leaders have been greatly encouraged by the passage of the Senate bill, by the unanimous report of the Committee of the Territories of the House, by the speech of Mr. Cannon, by the action of the Democratic caucus, by the speech of Mr. Hooper, by the action of the Democratic members of the House, by the speech of Mr. Caine, by the action of the Democratic Senators, by the opportunity to be on the ground and witness the progress of the Democratic party in Congress, by the presence of Mr. Caine and Mr. Hooper here, by the fact that Democratic Congressmen and Democratic Senators have been visiting Utah

A VIEW OF NEW MEXICO AGAINST HER WILL AS A STATE.

The Town Embraced in Eighteen Million Acres Given Away to Old Settlers—Opposition to Statehood—Power, a County Seat, and Other Plums, Not Popular, Perhaps, and Sundry Lawsuit Over Interesting Matters.

SANTA FE, N. M., July 31.—[Special Correspondence St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]—There is a bill in the Senate similar to different others, the Government land, the railroad interests, and the old Mexican grants. This bill is rather more complicated than a private claim. The grants are in which nearly one-fifth of the public lands in the Territory are involved. The railroad lands are of the second ranked kind. The public lands open to settlement are in the interest of grants.

The grants are in many forms that are known to geometry, and scattered to all parts of the Territory. On the northern border, and lapping over into Colorado, is one of the largest of these white spots. It is known as the Maxwell, or Beaubien and Miranda, [Beaubien was the world as "the Maxwell grant." The recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States confirming the title to the occupants, and the still more recent "call to arms" of the settlers, to resist both they shall assert their "rights," bring a long controversy to an interesting crisis.

Here is a tract of country fifty miles wide from east to west and sixty long from north to south, as large as several counties in one of the Eastern States, and large enough to make quite a showing if put down beside a map of New England. The Santa Fe trail once ran through the eastern portion of the grant a distance of sixty miles. Within the grant Cimarron are Rayado, the county seat of Colfax, Mora, Chaperito, Sapelloville, and half a dozen villages. Around Elizabethtown is a mining district which has yielded forty mines to Lynch and several other operators. Extensive beds of coal have been found at Raton and elsewhere. There are also open fields and meadows. There are also open fields and meadows. There are also open fields and meadows

You cannot discriminate too carefully in spending your money for clothing. There is some clothing that is good, but lots of it poor. We do not, and will not, make or buy inferior quality of goods. July is our disposing month of Odd Suits. The patterns are new, goods all right, but it leaves us with what we call odds and ends. If you can get fitted, the bargain is yours. You must come and see what these prices represent as to quality. There will be no disappointment. We have taken several $12, $13, $15 Suits and marked them $10.

A few days have known, that the Lindley Hall, that the women students of Hinton and Kendall have been permitted to undergo examinations entirely similar to those that the male students of the University of Chicago have to pass for their degrees and that their names have been included in examination lists, indicating the precise position they would have occupied had they been men. The degree itself, however, has not been granted. This year the women have achieved an unprecedented success, which has been received more prominently by the men than by some of the dwellers in the girls' halls. The success of the women has been gained by Miss J. P. Sumner, a Hinton student, who has proved a queen in the first division of the classical tripos, in which no place has been given to any male competitor. This is a feature should be the very worst [illegible] of the university authorities.
